Poem by Uncle John

Jim Duff was a feller we all admired—was a reg'lar glutton fer speed; the pace werent invented that made Jim tired,—on that we was all agreed. He never foresaw no accident—nor reckoned one might occur, but he suddenly learnt what his finish meant when he travelled one step too fur.

A man goes fast these miracklous days, without spreadin' dire alarm,—but the one wrong step at the partin' of ways, is the item that brings the harm. We all jigger on at a lively clip, in a race where the swiftest wins, but a step too fur—at the end of the trip is when the disaster begins.

We hardly can say it's the pace that kills, sence humanity's learnt to fly. It aint the miles—nor the size of the hills that frown as we're whizzin' by. But, the warnin' truth that confronts our gaze, is sparklin' without a blur,—"The error that hastens the end of days is—goin' a step too fur!"

THE TRUTH "—is also found in frank confession of error"

THE GASOLINE TAX

CONSIDERABLE is being published in the press these days pro and con about the proposed gasoline tax, and of course, many good things are said on both sides of the question. The Cloverdale Reveille of recent date sized the matter up tersely, and it appears to be about as sensible as anything we have read on the issue:

"Until some other equitable method of building paved roads is devised for the automobile users to have for their convenience, this paper inclines to the view that the gasoline tax is all right, if not pushed too far sky-ward. Two cents a gallon or three cents a gallon is not a high tax for the privilege of traveling on improved roads. The automobile is responsible for the need for improved roads today. What the oil companies dread most is that the taxing may not stop with any three cent tax before they get through and that is doubtless the reason they are so anxious to get before the people the dangers lurking in that contemplated form of taxation. The politicians like this form, as it appears to be the most painless form of raising revenues from a long-suffering public. The trouble with a land tax plan to build roads is that the property owners who are not directly benefitted will start a clamor immediately. The bond issue plan is wrong, because it saddles a huge interest load, which the public has to meet and which amounts on long-term bonds to more than the principal sum. If some genius will invent a taxation plan which will build roads and not stir up dissension among the people, let him appear. Taxation is not pleasant in any form, but if we want to have modern day improvements, the users must pay for them. Who wants to go back to the old days of winding highways?"

OUT OF THE PAST

CARSON CITY, that little community, the colorful capital of the state of Nevada, just now is the Mecca for an almost vanished clan of picturesque men. They are the last, dwindling remnants of the once numerous army of old-time professional gamblers who helped make history in the far west.

They are gathering for their last fight. They want to bring the "old days" back. Before the state legislature now in session is a bill which, if passed, will restore "wide open" gambling in Nevada. The measure proposes that virtually all forms of gambling—roulette, faro bank, fantan, keno and numerous other varieties of big money games—shall be legalized and that gamblers shall pay the state a yearly license fee of $1000 for every gaming table operated. All revenues from such gambling will go into the Nevada state treasury.

It is 15 years since Nevada legislated out of existence the same kind of licensed gambling. In that interval, the only kind of gambling permitted under law has been "no percentage" poker. Law and law enforcement, however, have been two different things. Hardly a city or mining town in Nevada but has had its gambling. There weren't the "big money" games of the olden days, and the pickings were not so rich, but the old-time gambler was able to hold on and eke out an existence.

Now, with the new gaming law before the legislature, the old timers think there's a "gambler's chance" it may become a law. So they are drifting to the state capital from all over the sagebrush—from little desert towns, from mining camps high up in the Sierras, from the once kaleidoscopic and colorful bonanza cities of Goldfield and Tonopah, and from the more effete and easternized Reno.

Most of those there are white-haired men, their tread infirm from passing years. But all are cold of eye and remarkably steady of hand—men who have lived rough hectic lives, with constantly tautened nerves. They have raised a "lobbying fund" and are buttonholing state legislators whenever the opportunity offers.

To the outside world they are calmly confident that the "wide open" games and their own trade will come back into the glories of two decades ago.

LONG BILL EXPLAINS FOLLY OF OUR TAXES

Still Pete Gets A Letter From Round Valley Sage Who Sabes

Long Bill, not having heard from his friend, Still Pete, writes him and tells of the situation that is developing in Round Valley regarding roads. The Indian says:

Covelo, Calif., March 1, 1925.

Mr. Still Pete,
Pinoleville, Calif.
Friend Pete:

Spring come, rain come, flowers come, but Pete never come yet, so I write lil bit, tell you we all here yet, never drown nothing. Awful rainy time we had this winter, never slack up long enough let a man go on the hill get wood.

Seem like Old Man turn on water, go off below someplace, forgit all 'bout Round Valley. Them Lower Quarter lane just afloat. My cussin, he drive band of hogs, gonta sellum. Got one biggest sow in that bunch, mire down there, never could seeit again, musta gone right through.

My cussin he pay taxes, got fire insurance; smart like everything. "Ought to carry life insurance too," I tellit, "on them hog."

Hog pretty fair price now. You savvy Round Valley style most year; drive hog out of valley, sellit low price, same time buy them eastern bacon, have to be hauled back in. This year more sensible, good many our people make bacon self this year, cause can't sellit on foot.

I ride by Simmerly place nother day last week. Must gonta hold circus, I think, see two big tent there; but whe ngit up close I see that's new kind of sheep pen Dave Johnson got. Let in sun, that's more better for sheep than barn. Lotsa little lamb now. Good many Spring come and go since we herd sheep for White, but them little lamb skip and butt its mother, same as forty years ago.

Some our oldtimer been travel that one-way trail this winter. Lotta them Sherwood, Cahto folks come over, Tony Bell, Mary Standley, all them people. Not much bad sickness like sometime, though. Everybody got cold, someum got whooping-cough. Jinny got it too, yelp like houndpup after jackrabbit. Some women gotta have everything.

Good many salmon come up last storm. Highest water I ever did see. Feed pretty good now. Lotsa hay this year.

Big farmers meeting in town tomorrow night. Them Ukiah boss come up, tell bout dairy, and take care of orchard count them pear blight and cottolene moth. Must keep it clean, thats what they say. Well, thats what we know already, but seem like in Round Valley they don't care. "Thats dont mean me," everybody think.

White man live neighbor to me, all time talk, some time sense, some time foolish talk. "Bill," he say, "Whassa mater you don't get deed your land, maybe can sellit?" "Huh," I say, like that I say, "What I want deed for? If I git deed, Jinny gonta pester me sell, and soon as money gone I got no home. Them young felas sell land, can go back and live with grandpa, but my grandpa been dead too many year. Same time, get deed and don't sell land, must gotta pay taxes. If I buy something, I get something. If I buy taxes, I get receipt. All right pay taxes, get road; but you pay taxes, got same road I got. Come good day, maybe can wallow through horseback."

County say, can't keep up Reservation road, never blong our district. Agent say, reservation all move to Sacramento, and gone. Can't work road that mail order business. Injun say, can't work road in rain, bimeby quit, then we go fishing. Road get no better fast.

If I strike oil on my place gonta buy me aeroplane.

Good bye Pete, write sooner.

Your friend,
LONG BILL.

Walter Faught, of Lakeport, was over from the neighboring county the middle of the past week.

Gossip and Comment on the Week's Theatrical Events

COMING THROUGH HAS UNDERGROUND SCENES

Descent Into Coal Mine Was Necessary To Get The Proper Setting

Coal miners in the Birmingham district who for years have worked underground by the light of carbide lamps fastened to their caps, got a new glimpse of their cavernous underworld recently when Thomas Meighan's company, under the direction of Edward Sutherland, descended to the interior of a mine at Newcastle to make scenes for "Coming Through."

The First Time.

Never before has the gloomy interior of a coal mine been so brilliantly illuminated. If you can imagine a small coal car equipped with headlights ten times as brilliant as any automobile headlight, plunging along through the narrow shaft, rounding sharp curves and revealing fantastic vistas of cavern and jagged wall, you can understand why the hardened old coal miners watched in awe and wonder. Their old stamping ground was completely transformed. They experienced another thrill when Director Sutherland ordered all lights out so that a film magazine could be changed. Even their carbide lamps were extinguished and for a period of five minutes the camera-men worked in Stygian darkness—the longest five minutes, many of the miners afterward declared, they had ever waited in their lives. This picture has another big "he-man" role for "Good Luck" Tom — his best to date. Tom's a chief clerk in the offices of a big steel corporation. His father-in-law, the president of the concern, sends him down to Colton, the toughest of mining camps, hoping that he may get rid of him through some "accident." But Tom makes good and wins the love of his bride. Lila Lee is leading woman in "Coming Through," which starts tonight at The State.

Film Proves Woman Has Right On Jury

The courtroom is crowded; the hundreds of spectators are tense with suppressed excitement. The judge sternly watches for any outbreak of emotion. But everything is so quiet that the dropping of a pin would be audible in every section of the immense room. The prisoner, a mere girl hugging a baby in her arms, sits beside her mother, tremblingly waiting for the verdict that undoubtedly will spell doom, for she is charged with murder. There is a single ray of hope for her—on the jury is a women. Perhaps she will understand.

Scenes Are Tense.

This is the dramatic atmosphere in which Harry O. Hoyt directed "The Woman on the Jury," a First National picture which is to be the feature next Tuesday at The State Theatre. But the courtroom episode is but one of the many powerful sequences which have been provided by the author, Bernard K. Burns, whose play ran for more than a year on Broadway. Sylvia Breamer is featured, with Frank Mayo playing opposite her. Other notables in the cast are Myrtle Stedman, Hobart Bosworth, Henry B. Walthall, Bessie Love, Mary Carr, Arthur Lubin, Lew Cody, Roy Stewart, Ford Sterling, Stanton Heck, Jean Hersholt and Leo White.

MISS BLUEBEARD GIVES REAL STAR BIG CHANCE

Bebe Daniels Is Seen To Advantage In Coming Film Classic

Bebe Daniels in her second starring picture of Paramount's justly-famous Forty," "Miss Bluebeard," an adaptation of Avery Hopwood's Broadway stage success, "Little Miss Bluebeard," is supported by an ideal cast of players—a cast true-to-type in every sense of the word. This picture, which will be the feature Friday at The State Theatre, was directed by Frank Tuttle. Townsend Martin wrote the screen play.

You Recall Him.

Raymond Griffith (remember him in "Changing Husbands"?) has a comedy role as the Hon. Bertie Bird who does his best to straighten things out for the star and other principals in this merry little marriage mix-up, only to mess things up all the more. Robert Frazer is leading man opposite Miss Daniels. He has the role of a woman-hating young composer. He has met Colette (Bebe) only once in his life—and the second time she is introduced to him as his wife. What's it all about? That's where the laugh comes in in "Miss Bluebeard."

Mix-Up Is On.

Kenneth MacKenna, prominent stage actor, makes his screen debut in this production. He plays Larry's (Frazer) friend who is stranded with Colette in a small town railroad station and, posing as Larry, marries her. That's how the mix-up starts. The picture also introduces Martha Madison to movie audiences. Miss Madison, a petite blonde, is cast as Lulu, one of Larry's most ardent admirers. Diana Kane, who started her career as the protege of Bebe Daniels in "Sinners in Heaven" and "Dangerous Money," is also well cast. "Miss Bluebeard" is a pleasing love comedy with Miss Daniels in a piquant role.

New Tom Mix Picture, Most Pretentious One

Admirers of Tom Mix, with the inseparable Tony and the more recent co-star, Duke, the dog, will have the opportunity to see their favorite in a new wonder picture when "Teeth" comes to The State Theatre Sunday. In this, his latest vehicle, he appears as Dave Deering, a happy-go-lucky wandering prospector, a lover of his horse, Tony, and later a dog, Duke, that he finds sorely wounded. From this point the story moves with intensified action, with many realistic scenes, one vivid feature being a real forest fire. "Teeth" was directed by J. G. Blystone for William Fox and was adapted from "Sonny," the popular novel by Virginia Hudson Brightman.

SOUTH SEA LIFE IS SHOWN JUST AS IT IS

Lure Of The Tropics Has Thrills Injected In Entire Story

"The Roughneck," coming to The State Theatre Saturday and advertised as a "novel of life for every red-blooded man and woman," lives up to the description. It is described as an extraordinary story of thrilling battles in the prize ring, of South Sea Islands and beachcombers, of the riff-raff and interesting derelicts of civilization seasoned with more than a full share of romance and adventure in San Francisco and Tahiti.

Thrills Are Many.

Adapted from the Robert W. Service novel, "The Roughneck," by Charles Kenyon and produced by William Fox under the skillful direction of John Conway, the picture moves with the vigorous rhythm of the Service verse: often, in fact, one is carried away by the colorful treatment, according to advance reports. To those who have enjoyed the virile, he-man writings of Mr. Service, "The Roughneck" is certain to bring delight. The story is replete with exotic adventures enough to satisfy the greediest consumer of romance. "The Roughneck" is being hailed as one of the most popular releases of the season. The character portrayal of John Moon by George O'Brien is said to be a superb piece of acting and his physical prowess and pleasing personality add much to the interpretation. He is ably supported by the beautiful Billie Dove and an excellent cast including Harry T. Morey, Cleo Madison, Ann Cornwell and others.

All Stars Of A Famous Kind Used In Casting

Four of the best-known writers and adapters of screen productions were engaged by Universal to prepare "The Mad Whirl" for filming. The picture is a Universal-Jewel all-star production and will be shown in The State Theatre Monday only. The players selected for "The Mad Whirl" are some of the best known favorites in pictures, and all of them have had leading parts in numerous big productions. May McAvoy is the featured player. Others in the cast are Jack Mulhall, Myrtle Stedman, Barbara Bedford, Alec B. Francis, Ward Crane, George Fawcett, Marie Astaire and Joseph Singleton. The story from which "The Mad Whirl" was adapted created a sensation and was characterized as a vigorous expose of certain social conditions asserted to be resultant from prohibition and the jazz-mania that many see as a great menace to family life.

PETER PAN PROBABLY YEAR'S BEST FEATURE

Favorite 20 Seasons On Speaking Stage A Winner On Screen

There is hardly a man, woman or child in the land who doesn't know and love "Peter Pan," the boy who would not grow up. For the past 20 years this J. M. Barrie play has been nothing short of a sensation on the legitimate stage. It has become an institution, in fact an institution that shows no sign of decay.

Better Than Ever.

Barrie, the man with the most colorful imagination of all England's writers, has put into this classic scenes which could only be hinted at in the stage production of the piece. But on the screen, it is an entirely different matter. In the Herbert Brennon production for Paramount of the Barrie masterpiece, with Betty Bronson, Ernest Torrence, Cyril Chadwick, Virginia Brown Faire, Ann May Wong and others in the all-star cast, the underground home of the Little Lost Boys, Never Never Land itself, the Indians, fairies, pirates, the Darling home, dog-nurse and all, have been reproduced with amazing fidelity on the screen. "Peter Pan," which opens next Wednesday at The State Theatre, is a scene for scene picturization of the story as the author wrote it. Herbert Brennon was selected to direct the picture because he was the producer of the first two fantasies the screen ever knew. Roy Pomeroy, who handled the technical end of the Cecil B. DeMille super-production, "The Ten Commandments," which stood the entire industry on end, is responsible for the many weird effects in "Peter Pan." Esther Ralston, George Ali, Mary Brian, Philippe de Lacey and Jack Murphy complete the cast of players.

HAS A JOB OPEN

No one disputes the contention Judge H. L. Preston makes a hard-working judge, but it remained for a woman to discover Judge Preston was no mean hand as a tiller of the soil. The fact Judge Preston is no slacker when working in a garden attracted the attention of a strange lady Sunday morning when she happened to be passing Judge Preston's home when Judge Preston was busily spading a rose patch. The lady stopped to watch the handy, rapid manner in which he used his spade and then called to Judge Preston, whose overalls gave him an honest-to-goodness appearance of a worker. "Do you work in gardens much," queried the lady. "Yes, quite a good deal," came from the toiler. "I would like, if I could, to get you to work for me Monday morning," the lady came back with. "No, I am afraid I will have to work at the court-house tomorrow," courteously replied the spader. "I am sorry," sadly said the lady. "Yes, so am I," replied the man with the garden implement in his hand and thus was the opportunity for H. L. Preston to engage in new pursuits of endeavor and possibly quickly amass a fortune, forever closed to him.

Miss Veta Smith, of Oakland, was a recent week-end visitor with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Smith. Miss Smith was accompanied home by her brother, Sidney Smith, who passed a few days in the bay cities.

COVELO'S ROUND-UP TO BE A 'HUM-DINGER'

Better Than Ever Is The Slogan Of Business Manager

Dr. E. E. Bennett, Willits surgeon, was in Ukiah Sunday on professional matters. Dr. Bennett is an enthusiastic range-sports admirer and is business manager of the big Covelo Rodeo Association, an organization that is growing larger each year.

Getting Ready Now.

Talking of the coming rodeo, Dr. Bennett stated the association is going to have a bigger and greater, in every way, rodeo this year than before. "It is going to be the finest thing of its kind ever staged in this part of California," Dr. Bennett said. "We have purchased the Berry string of horses and, in connection with the stock we now own, this will make us the possessors of the best (or worst) bucking string in any man's country. Covelo's fourth annual rodeo is going to take place July 2, 3 and 4 this year and we want Ukiah people and the rest of mankind to be on hand, as we certainly will strive in every way to entertain them and make them feel at home," Dr. Bennett concluded.

Miss Lucy Trimeloni, who is now residing in Sausalito, passed the week with her parents here.

Frank L. Caughey, of Ukiah, passed several days last week on line of duty visiting the grammar schools of the coast.

SPRAYING TIME TO BE RECALLED, RIGHT NOW

Farm Supervisor Tells Of Precautions For Care Of Trees

(By C. S. Myszka)

Spring time is nearing rapidly and fruit growers are beginning to prepare their spray rigs in readiness for early spraying work. A number of calls are being received daily as to the right spray materials to use and the proper time to apply them. Also whether the methods practiced in the past may not be abandoned for easier plans.

Expensive, But Necessary.

Although spraying is one of the more expensive of the several orchard operations, the value of the crop is so greatly increased thereby it is a comparatively small investment, the expense amounting to only a fraction of the returns directly due to the practice. Orchard spraying is in fact an exceedingly cheap form of insurance. It must not be inferred, however, that spraying operations are always uniformly successful. While a considerable degree of skill in spraying has now been reached by a large proportion of the fruit growers, there is still room for improvement. Of all orchard work, spraying is the most likely to be slighted or even neglected, and there is a need that fruit growers have a more intimate knowledge of what they are spraying for and of the spray materials used, as well as the proper use of them.

Facts To Remember.

However, it is not the purpose of this article to discuss spray materials or the proper methods of administering them. It is hoped to call the growers' attention to the first spraying operations which are to take place this spring. Due to the early bud development in pears, it is already too late to apply a dormant spray. If it has been found necessary to dispense with the clean-up spray, it is all the more important that attention be paid to the subsequent spray operations. This is particularly true if the season continues to be damp for the next month or six weeks. The first application following the dormant spray is the one used for scab control. This applies particularly to pears. In order to guide those desiring to spray their pear orchards for the prevention of scab, as well as general orchard pest control, the following spray calendar has been found most satisfactory and is recommended for the purpose:

Dormant or Clean-up Spray—Apply one gallon standard lime and sulphur solution to 10 gallons of water, in early fall or winter. This spray will kill red spider, scale, blister-mite and remove moss. It is of little value in controlling pear scab.

Scab Control.

First Spraying—Apply three gallons standard lime and sulphur solution to 100 gallons of water as the cluster buds are well open, but before the flowers appear. This application is indispensable in scab control.

Second Spraying—Apply 1¼ gallons standard lime and sulphur solution to 100 gallons of water as the blossom petals begin to fall.

Coddling Moth Control.

First Spraying—Apply three pounds of powdered neutral lead arsenate to 100 gallons of water as blossom petals begin to fall. This may be included in the second scab control spray.

Second Spraying—Apply 2½ pounds of powdered neutral lead arsenate to 100 gallons of water 15 days later.

Third Spraying—Apply two pounds of powdered neutral lead arsenate to 100 gallons of water not later than June 20.

Aphis Control.

Apply one pound of blackleaf forty to 100 gallons of water. Include in either of the above sprayings as needed.

The equivalent of dry lime and sulphur may be used instead of the standard lime and sulphur solution. According to analysis, it requires 4.4 pounds of the dry material to equal one gallon of the standard lime and sulphur solution.

WANTS A LEAGUE

Fort Bragg is anxious to have a county baseball league this year and would like to see Ukiah, Willits, Mendocino and Fort Bragg compose the league. At a recent meeting of baseball enthusiasts in the coast city it was decided a delegation should get in touch with the Ukiah Chamber of Commerce and try to induce that body to use its influence in getting a league started early and successfully conducted throughout the summer.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

But three applications for marriage licenses have been made in the clerk's office the past week, those applying being Fred Fisher and Katherine Trainor, Chas. E. Peterson and Ruth P. Doak; Conrad J. Sharkey and Myrtle Kamberg.

C. S. Sternberg, manager of The Cecille Hotel, went to San Francisco on hotel matters the first of last week and got back Saturday.

Mrs. George B. Stambaugh was shopping in the city Thursday, returning later to her Robinson creek home.

LOOK OUT FOR SELF POISONING

Neglect of the liver results in self-poisoning! Not so quickly, perhaps, but just as surely as if you drank poison out of a bottle. If your liver is not doing its work of helping digestion, eliminating waste from the bowels and purifying the blood, you will always be troubled with sick headaches, nausea, biliousness, bad breath, gas, sour stomach, or constipation.

Cleanse and tone your liver! Put your system in condition so you feel your very best again! Try just a spoonful of Dr. H. S. Thacher's excellent Liver and Blood Syrup after the next few meals and notice the quick improvement in the way you eat, sleep, look and feel—the return of strength, vigor and energy. You will be completely satisfied; otherwise there will be no cost. Dr. Thacher's Liver and Blood Syrup is sold and recommended by Morris Drug Company and all other leading druggists. ***

Lumber Dealers Guests Of Mendocino Millmen

Willits was visited enroute by the Northeastern Retail Lumberman's Association on its West Coast excursion, going to Fort Bragg. The program arranged for the visitors was in charge of R. F. Hammatt, secretary-manager of the California Redwood Association, as a courtesy to the eastern visitors who came from the far eastern section of the United States in a special train of several coaches. The party was composed of lumbermen from Massachusetts, New York, New Hampshire, Maine and other eastern states, on an excursion taking in all of the manufacturing districts from coast to coast. On the trip from San Francisco to Mendocino county, the Union Lumber Company was host, and President C. R. Johnson accompanied the excursionists to Fort Bragg.

Angelo Battolomei has been a guest at the home of his brother at Talmage for a month past. The two men have not seen each other for almost 18 years. The visitor hails from New York and will return there shortly.

O. O. Butcher, of Willits, made a business trip to Ukiah Monday.

DINED OLD TIMERS

Last Sunday Henry Muir, of Willits, invited all of the old settlers of Little Lake Valley to a dinner at The Hotel Corbett. Many attended and a fine time was enjoyed.

Do you get these 5 ALL-IMPORTANT QUALITIES in the shortening you buy?

Unless you do, you don't know the new satisfaction that comes from the use of a perfect shortening. See for yourself how FLUFFO supplies every single one of these essentials.

FLUFFO is PURE, made only from the best vegetable oils, refined and re-refined. Its CREAMINESS comes from aerating or "fluffing" the shortening, so that it mixes evenly with sugar and flour. The air-tight can brings it to you as FRESH and sweet as the day it was packed. FLUFFO is made from one of the most DIGESTIBLE vegetable oils known, and it does not break down and smoke at proper cooking temperatures.

And here at last is a shortening that has no pronounced FLAVOR of its own—just the delicate richness a perfect shortening should have.

Once you use FLUFFO, you'll always use it.

Fuller Experts Tell Of Needs Of Cheerfulness

The 1925 advertising plans of W. P. Fuller & Co. call for the use of more than 200 newspapers in the Pacific Coast and 11 western states, according to an announcement just made public by K. L. Hamman, president of Johnston-Ayres Company, advertising agency of San Francisco.

"One of the chief topics of discussion at the recent meeting of W. P. Fuller & Co. branch managers, was the importance of color in the decoration of the home," Mr. Hamman said. "The first impression of a house," continued Mr. Hamman, "comes as one enters the front door into the hall—thus, nowhere in the entire house is it more important to strike the right keynote in furnishing and decorating. If there is no closet in the hall for wraps and umbrellas it will be necessary to have in some obscure corner, a wooden strip painted the same color of the woodwork, in which are solid brass hooks placed low enough so that the young members of the family can reach them. Also there should be provided a plain potery jar for umbrellas which will harmonize with the color scheme of walls and carpet." Otis N. Johnson, manager of the sales promotion department of W. P. Fuller & Co., offers a few suggestions as to the color scheme for various rooms. Mr. Johnson remarked: "The dining room should be one of the most cheerful and inspiring rooms of the house. It is the place where the family gathers to enjoy meals together and nothing insures a better start than having breakfast in a bright and cheerful room.

PLANT BIG VINEYARD

A. Perelli-Minetti is home from Delano, Kern county, where a large vineyard is being set out by the California Grape Products Co. and an affiliated corporation.

Potter Valley News

(Special Correspondence of The Press)

POTTER VALLEY, March 9.—Thursday evening a delightful party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Hunter in honor of the birthday of Mr. Hunter. Nineteen guests were present to share in the pleasure of cards, a radio program and piano selections by Miss Dorothy Carnar. Ices and cakes were served and Mr. Hunter was the recipient of a number of gifts.

C. A. Carnar has just completed the task of planting a new pear orchard. J. J. Deshiel and Clyde Eddie also planted pear orchards recently.

James W. Gully, who handles the Gravelly valley mail contract, has gone to San Francisco for medical treatment. During his absence Mrs. Gully will deliver the mail. Mrs. Florence Howard, of Ukiah, is a guest of Mrs. Gully during the absence of Mr. Gully.

Brice Hammock, who has charge of the fish hatchery at the Eel river dam, is at present home with his family.

Mrs. Alice Bickford, of Ukiah, was in Potter valley recently looking after business interests.

Quite a number of Potter valley residents "listened in" on the inaugural ceremonies at Washington Wednesday.

Monday evening Assistant Farm Advisor Foote, E. W. Stephens, marketing agent; Roy C. Good, county superintendent of schools, and Edward Blackman were present at a meeting here to discuss the new grading of schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Perle Crawford and daughter, Margaret, were recent guests at the J. J. Thornton home. While here they were members of a family picnic at Eel river.

Ralph Day, of Eureka, passed the week-end here with his mother and family.

L. L. Grover and wife, Mrs. Cowie and Miss Weir, of Ukiah, were in Potter valley Sunday as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Vaughn. While here they attended church services, where Miss Weir sang a solo.

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Busch and Mrs. B. E. Thornton, mother of Mrs. Busch, visited relatives yesterday in Lake county.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Trosper, of Oakland, and Mr. Heron, of San Francisco, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Hunter.

As scheduled, the revival services began Wednesday evening and will continue through this week. The Rev. Butcher, of Kelseyville, is assisting the local pastor and Messrs. Rodgers, Holmes and Schloock, of Kelseyville, are contributing to the song service nightly. Mrs. Butcher is acting as accompanist. Pearl Vaughn, local singer, also contributes vocal numbers.

The winning boys' team in the Sunday school contest for attendance was given a chicken pie supper Saturday evening. The great interest taken in the contest is due largely to the untiring efforts of Mrs. J. J. Thornton, superintendent, and the Rev. Elliot, local pastor. Miss Alice Hardisty, who teaches school at Willits, was present by request and assisted in the direction of the games and other diversions of the evening, following the supper.

A union picnic of Sunday school workers and pupils is being planned for June 7 at the lake front home of the Rev. Elliot in Kelseyville, at which time the Sunday schools of Upper Lake, Kelseyville, Lakeport and Potter Valley will unite.

Northwestern Pacific Has New Local Agent

P. J. Allen, who has been agent for the Northwestern Pacific railroad company at Hopland for some time, has been promoted to the same line of duty in this city and has already assumed charge. Mr. Allen is an experienced railroad man and is destined to get along well here. Temporary Agent Van Heult who has been here since the resignation of Agent H. P. Dohring, will, for the time being, again take up the work of relief agent, working out of San Francisco. Mr. Van Heult was an obliging official and while here only a short time, was becoming very well liked.
